Agnė Kazulėnaitė (vvf-24): What does "were adapted to receive a visit from the SR VVF" mean? Did we manage to adapt it, or did other methods stick?

Answer (Aistė Adomavičiūtė): We got ideas to sit in a circle, but we had problems with getting an audience. We also got a suggestion to motivate other first-year students to speak, because we and the team were talking among ourselves and it seemed that they had no chance to intervene.

Kipras Petraitis (guest): Why was the point "to increase the effectiveness of the study program committee" not implemented?

Answer (Aistė Adomavičiūtė): We had problems with communication, the vice president did not receive information about the meeting, because the vice president did not receive information, it could not be passed on to the elders.

Kipras Petraitis (guest): The presentation states that “most new members come to the meetings, last year there was a minority of those who participated”. Who is the majority?

Answer (Aistė Adomavičiūtė): Because about 20 new members arrived in September. Although sometimes they could not come due to work or other reasons, 80-100% of those 20 arrive stably.

Kipras Petraitis (guest): What essential processes or essential problems will you transfer to the new candidate that you did not have time to implement yourself with the team?”

Answer (Aistė Adomavičiūtė): What I paid most attention to was that when I started my term, one of the goals was to start cooperation with higher education institutions. No one started in the previous team, nothing happened during my term either, so I will transfer this problem.

Austėja Bernatavičiūtė (guest): What was the most difficult thing during this semester?

Answer (Aistė Adomavičiūtė): Since we had a very short period, the most difficult thing was getting used to the information and time planning.

Kipras Petraitis (guest): Does “defining expectations” really motivate people?

Answer (Aistė Adomavičiūtė): In my opinion, then attention is drawn to activities. We noticed that there is not much work with elders, we communicate only through surveys, so I hope that we will find a way to present our expectations to them, which will make communication more active.

Austėja Bernatavičiūtė: In what “groups” is information provided?

Answer (Aistė Adomavičiūtė): Groups are with elders, faculty groups. Information is provided about SA work, job advertisements, etc.

SR: Gabrielė Kovalevskytė

17. Q&A session;

Guest: What steps will you take to implement the point "flexibility of studies"? What would be the steps to achieve that goal?

Answer (Gabrielė Kovalevskytė): At the moment I only have an idea, but first I need to talk to the professors about theoretical lectures.

Kęstutis Vasiliauskas: Will you focus on the aspects of online learning or not? Would this also include the expansion of some similar courses?

Answer (Gabrielė Kovalevskytė): I would focus on students who cannot attend lectures due to illness. Some students will use this opportunity to "get sick" and stay home.

Rugilė Narvilaitė: What work will you take to implement the point about dormitory elders during your term?

Answer (Gabrielė Kovalevskytė): This goal is already being implemented, there are working groups that are working on it, and we will continue the work.

Gustė Stonytė: Would you consider having these conferences remotely or in a blended format?

Answer (Gabrielė Kovalevskytė): Yes. I would say that the opportunity to participate in the conference is an important matter for student representatives, most representatives don't even bother to come.

Kipras Petraitis (guest): Dissemination of information. Would it be consistent publication of letters or would it be only when there is a need?

Answer (Gabrielė Kovalevskytė): I don't have the opportunity to look into the future. This newsletter was started by Central Office, I would have to start from scratch. I will try to constantly publish everything we do, we do something every day, information will be not only from cb, but also from the faculty.

Kipras Petraitis (guest): How do you promise to force people to attend lectures in an ethical culture? Will professors or administrations go there?

Answer (Gabrielė Kovalevskytė): Ethics training. We have received permission to create these trainings, we will have to examine them more closely, they are prepared by the academic support center.

Guest: If you were a balloon, what color would you be?

Answer (Gabrielė Kovalevskytė): I would say white. Because this is a new stage in my life as a presidential candidate. The white color symbolizes a blank canvas, other colors would be like information.
